"Digs in Blankets!"

SATURDAY 9 DECEMBER 2017

9 December 1949 was a bitterly cold night but George and Mary Hogg did not notice the cold. They had been to a festival of Christmas carols at their church in Kidderminster and had enjoyed a convivial afternoon with friends old and new. Travelling home on the 7.30 express from Kidderminster to Bridgnorth, they are happy in each others company and looking forward to the festive season. But there are those on the train who harbour no such happy thoughts. They live only for what their avarice, greed and lack of respect for others brings them. Such people care for none but themselves and those who come between them and what they want are trampled under foot. Little surprise then that this journey will end in brutal murder!

It is fortunate then that a Detective Inspector Alfred Crowther should be boarding the train at Brignorth after a long and tedious day at Brignorth Police Station, on his way home to Arley. Unfortunately for him is the fact that a policeman is never truly off duty and, confronted with a murder, he has no alternative to taking charge and commencing an investigation. You may rest assured that the Inspector will leave no stone unturned as he questions the suspects which will eventually lead him to the apprehension of the perpetrator of this heinous crime.

So join us and dine in fine style as we travel along the picturesque Severn valley aboard an authentic steam train of the period. Enjoy the camaraderie and banter with your fellow passengers as a foul and brutal murder takes place before your very eyes and you are invited to assist Inspector Crowther bring the guilty to justice. Please feel free to dress in period costume should you wish, to make your personal experience even more authentic. We look forward to welcoming you.
